1 Corporate culture

1.1 About business Work culture and placements

1. It depends on company culture. New employees need to try to work out quickly what is expected in each of the three situations and to adjust to the company culture as soon as they can. To start off though, it's probably safe to dress smartly, not be the first or the last to leave the office, maybe make one or two contributions to a meeting, but more importantly to listen and learn at first.

2. The experiment demonstrated how an unwritten rule is created. Seven examples of unwritten rules: nobody should ever climb the ladder; working long hours is more important than achieving results; the boss is always right, even when he's wrong; if you're not at your desk, you're not working; nobody complains, because nothing changes; women, ethnic minorities and the over 30s are not promoted; the customer is king, but don't tell anyone, because management are more interested in profitability.

3. New staff quickly learn when their ideas and opinions are listened to and valued, and when it's better to keep them to themselves, which assignments and aspects of their performance will be checked and evaluated, and whose objectives and instructions they can safely ignore. They learn from the way staff speak to management, or customers and to each other, and from the differences between what is said, decided or permitted, and what actually gets done.

4. Suggested answers: 1. Organizations and companies can try to avoid negative unwritten rules by respecting constraints, giving and listening to feedback, defining and applying clear procedures, providing training to develop a positive work culture. 2. A government department: Office etiquette: formal dress code, strict office hours, inflexible, subject to security constraints. Relationships with colleagues, management and clients / business partners: hierarchical and formal and Autonomy and initiative: limited, strict procedures for everything. A small public relations firm: Office etiquette: probably very informal, relaxed, flexible, results oriented rather than time conscious. Relationships with colleagues, management and clients / business partners: friendly and participative, little or no visible hierarchy. Autonomy and initiative: wide, but must be justified. A manufacturing company: Answers will depend on national and corporate culture.

5. Answers will vary. 1. Alexandra was not accepted by her colleagues. David spent an item. 2. Alexandra misunderstood the (unwritten) office rules on sending books. David assumed Monica would love to inform him she had a date with a guy, but she didn't. Monica interrupted David's introduction in changing the subject - item in relationship.

6. Students' mistakes: Alexandra's story: didn't ask about / was not sensitive to unwritten rules, didn't talk to colleagues. David's story: took friendly culture at face value, didn't accept criticism, didn't learn from the problem. Supervisor's mistakes: Alexandra's story: didn't tell student about unwritten rules, gave student too much autonomy, didn't make sure student met colleagues. David's story: didn't explain local work culture, didn't keep enough distance from item, didn't understand the item's condition. 7. Answers will vary.

1.4 Speaking Meetings – one-to-one

1. Answers depend on local and work cultures. Suggested answers: 1. In most English-speaking cultures, this is the norm, with the notable exception of Africa, where suspicion, and frequently jokes, are addressed by the first name. Use of the first name is also unusual in much of Asia, and in Germany. 2. Some cultures, like France, make a clear distinction between business and personal life. Others, like the Swedish furniture company Ikea, organize regular social events, where all levels of staff are expected to mix freely. 3. In most Latin cultures, managers will expect subordinates to perform tasks like making coffee. Some staff in Nordic cultures may be shocked and even insulted by such a request. 4. This usually depends more on the type of work involved than on local or work culture. Personal calls for staff in production may be very unwelcome, whereas in departments like sales or marketing, where work organization is more flexible, there is usually no particular problem. 5. This is the case in many English-speaking and Nordic cultures, especially in the USA. In Latin and Asian countries, the opposite is often true, with a certain locus or even machines associated with working late. 6. This probably depends on the organization as much as on the culture. In large scientific meetings, for example, the majority of attendees will not be expected to speak.

After finishing high school, he worked his way through Lincoln University by conducting the school and church choir. Unsourced material may be challenged and removed. The group's 1967 LP The Magic Garden features all but one song composed by Webb. By some reckonings, "Aquarius/Let the Sunshine In" was the biggest hit single for 1969.[2] Later top 20 hits included 1970's "One Less Bell to Answer" (U.S. No. 2),[1] 1971's "Love's Lines, Angles and Rhymes" (U.S. No. 19) and "Never My Love" (U.S. No. 12), and 1972's "(Last Night) I Didn't Get to Sleep at All" (U.S. No. 8) and "If I Could Reach You" (U.S. No. 10). Archived from the original on February 2, 2009. The following year, the group scored major hit singles with Laura Nyro's songs "Stoned Soul Picnic" (U.S. No. 3) and "Sweet Blindness" (U.S. No. 13).[1] The group received a gold record for their album Stoned Soul Picnic. ^ "The Musicradio Top 100 of 1969". When asked to join McLemore's new group, he agreed, while hoping for a solo contract from Motown. (February 2013) (Learn how and when to remove this template message) Marilyn McCoo (born September 30, 1943, Jersey City, New Jersey) Florence LaRue (born February 4, 1942 Philadelphia, Pennsylvania) Billy Davis Jr. (born June 26, 1938, St. Louis, Missouri) LaMonte McLemore (born September 17, 1939, St. Louis, Missouri[11]) Ronald L. Career Formation This section does not cite any sources. On June 21, 2016, the 5th Dimension featuring Florence LaRue performed in The Villages, Florida, just days after the Orlando nightclub shooting. ^ "Michael Mishaw". The group signed with Motown not long after, releasing two albums in 1978. On February 14, 2015, McLemore released an autobiographical memoir, From Hobo Flats to The 5th Dimension: A Life Fulfilled in Baseball, Photography and Music. In 1967 the 5th Dimension recorded "Go Where You Wanna Go," which became a breakthrough hit for them. However, the song failed to chart. Honors The group was inducted into the Vocal Group Hall of Fame in 2002.[9] They have a star on the Hollywood Walk of Fame, inducted August 9, 1991, and the St. Louis Walk of Fame, inducted on March 18, 2010,[10] Membership This section may require cleanup to meet Wikipedia's quality standards. McCoo served a lengthy 1980s stint as the host of the TV show Solid Gold.[6] Reunion and departure The original quintet reunited in 1990 and 1991 for a tour. 10*Easy Listening* no. Townson left the group to try a solo career but soon returned to the group, as the group resigned itself to the nostalgia circuit. The group is also notable for having more success with the songs of Laura Nyro than Nyro did herself, particularly with "Stoned Soul Picnic", "Sweet Blindness", "Wedding Bell Blues", "Blowin' Away" and "Save the Country". Producer Bones Howe know how to make the most of their sound, tracking down songs that he helped craft into musical magic. ^ "It's Time to Take the 5th". Archived from the original (PDF) on May 30, 2009. However, internal disagreements caused Elston to go his own way, eventually leading to his forming the Friends of Distinction, with latter day Hi-Fis member, Floyd Butler. The 5th Dimension were the featured act of a July 28, 1969, CBS broadcast of highlights from the Harlem Cultural Festival, the "Black Woodstock" gathering in Mount Morris Park that drew 300,000 festival attendees over six shows. ^ "LaMonte McLemore". Regrouping In 1975, McCoo and Davis, who had married on July 26, 1969, left the group to do collective and individual projects.[1] The duo had success with "Your Love" and the chart topper "You Don't Have to Be a Star (To Be in My Show)".[6] which won them their seventh Grammy award. p. 84/5. p. 195.
